Date: _____ - _____ - _____
(Day) (Month) (Year)

This agreement is between the Train & Multiply Joint Venture and:

(Person's name and title if applicable)

*Referred to as the 'Organizer' throughout this License Agreement document

Affiliation with an organization or group, if any _____

Train & Multiply materials will be used in my personal ministry, adhering to the intent and details of this agreement including the guidelines in Appendix A.

The Organizer agrees to each of the following terms and conditions:

1. Train & Multiply is a Joint Venture of Project WorldReach and One Mission Society, the sole copyright owners, authors, and proprietors of all components, versions, and derivatives of the T&M materials in any form, format, or method of production, including artwork.
2. An Organizer starts the Train & Multiply (T&M) process in their context. They are licensed by the Train & Multiply Joint Venture (TMJV) to use T&M materials to make disciples, plant churches, and train pastoral workers. The Organizer may use the T&M materials for their intended purpose and distribute them to the pastoral workers or trainees within the boundaries of their own ministry. Pastoral workers trained by an Organizer are by definition users who may reproduce T&M materials for their intended use in accordance with the limitations described in this agreement.
3. This Organizer License Agreement is not transferable to others. It may, however, remain yours as you relocate to a different ministry or location.
4. Organizers and users cannot sell, lend, give, or provide in any way, or in any format, copies of the T&M materials to any person, group, or organization outside the Organizer Boundaries Defined in Appendix A without prior written consent of the TMJV. The Organizer will refer all requests for the T&M materials coming from outside the terms of this License Agreement to an Authorized Trainer.
5. The Organizer may reproduce only T&M materials that are current authorized versions from originals in licensed languages, as provided by the TMJV. Authorized versions must be used for reproduction, and the Organizer agrees to remain current with version updates from the T&M website.
6. No changes in content of any kind may be made without prior written consent of the TMJV. The TMJV will consider requests and will be flexible for any changes that will make T&M more suitable for a local, social, ethnic, and cultural situation.
7. Project WorldReach and One Mission Society own the names Train & Multiply, T&M, and any derivatives. Those names and symbols are legal trademarks. All T&M materials will bear the identification required and supplied by the Train & Multiply Joint Venture, as well as copyright information. All rights and translations will always belong to the TMJV.

8. An annual report must be submitted to the TMJV containing information including: a description of the effectiveness of the program, any problems, testimonies, etc., and the number of churches and/or groups started, leaders developed, and T&M's impact on evangelism.
9. Organizers and users may not translate T&M materials nor produce translations without written consent by the TMJV and completion of a separate T&M Translator License Contract. Translation may only be done under guidelines and processes defined by the TMJV.
10. Organizers who sign this License Agreement and pay an authorized T&M trainer US $1.00 or the equivalent in local currency will be granted use of Level 1 T&M materials upon satisfactory completion of a Level 1 T&M training course provided by an authorized T&M trainer.

Upon satisfactory completion of a Level 2 T&M training course provided by an authorized T&M trainer, Organizers will be granted use of Level 2 T&M materials for US $1.00 or its equivalent in local currency, payable to the authorized T&M trainer.

The Organizer receives a lifetime license that allows the Organizer to print and use T&M materials as described in Appendix A of this agreement. This Organizer License Agreement is for one or more languages and the digital user files associated with them.

Licensed users who have been trained by authorized T&M trainers may receive the digital files for additional languages from their authorized T&M, provided they have completed the required T&M training.

Organizers who are not able to receive T&M training from an authorized T&M trainer may sign this License Agreement and purchase T&M materials from the TMJV for US $750. They may pay by credit card via PayPal with a link on the T&M website.

_____ (Organizer) and the TMJV have executed this agreement, subject to the conditions and dates above and below and subject to the copyright laws of the Berne Convention. All appendices will form part of this Organizer License Agreement. The TMJV reserves the right to cancel, revise, add to, and/or change the terms of any part of this agreement and its appendices at any time, and the Organizer agrees to abide by those changes. This agreement nullifies and replaces all previous contracts and types of contracts, licenses, and agreements dealing with Train & Multiply and T&M materials in any language. A signed copy of this agreement is to be retained for future proof of license ownership as requested.

Organizer License Agreement

Appendix A

Organizer Boundaries Defined

Train & Multiply is a set of training materials distributable through an unbroken chain of direct, active, and personal accountability.

Please understand that the various Train & Multiply (T&M) agreements are part of a global strategy that is intended to achieve improved and effective results in church planting and multiplication for Kingdom growth. The Organizer helps to fulfill this strategy for effective ministry.

Organizers who have received training and coaching on how to use T&M should name responsible coordinators who will help churches to multiply after the initial T&M trainees have started churches. With these responsible coordinators, you will see more positive results. To keep the multiplication of churches going, Organizers must ensure timely training and coaching of pastoral workers. Those who misuse the materials by using them as reading materials without supplying training and coaching will not see positive results for church multiplication. Organizers who provide accountability through coaching on the use of T&M will keep the chain unbroken.

Accountability, in this sense, does not refer to the lines of command within an organization itself, nor to a distant supervisor, base leader, or regional director. The Organizer who does little more than provide materials to all teams or groups over a large geographic area will not reach church multiplication goals. T&M Organizer License Agreements are issued to individuals. Our intention is not to issue them to organizations, denominations, or groups, but to individuals who may be part of any of these and who act according to our limits as defined.

Organizers must foster active and direct accountability in ministry for all those they mentor at the field level. In this way, even the most remote leader/pastoral worker in the training chain for multiplication has someone who listens sympathetically, answers questions, and provides guidance for all T&M training and concerns. The Organizer ensures that trainers they train also remain actively, integrally, and vitally involved with the church planting effort, especially with those who are doing it on the field. Organizers must maintain strong relationships and active, working communications with pastoral workers.

The answer to whether someone can receive a full set or partial set of T&M materials to use is governed by the Organizer License Agreement. Under this agreement only an authorized T&M trainer, an Organizer, or someone who is in a direct chain of mentoring with an Organizer can provide materials to someone else for use in the active ministry where direct accountability is maintained.

In other words, an Organizer who is under contract can have T&M materials freely distributed, in unlimited quantities, to those who are accountable in ministry to the Organizer. This can extend very far, but there must be a direct, active, and personal accountability. If there is no such accountability, then anyone who wants to obtain, use, or distribute T&M materials must enter into their own Organizer License Agreement.

I have read, understand, and agree with the Organizer Boundaries Defined, which forms part of this License Agreement.
